HIS FIRST CAUSE

And It Will Probably Be His Last.

HOLMES' ATTORNEY TRAPPED.

William A. Shoemaker Held in $1,500 Bail For Subornation of Perjury—Submitted a False Affidavit in Support of the Theory That Benjamin F. Pietsel Had Committed Suicide.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—The evil spirit that presides over the destinies of H. H. Holmes, king of murderers, and eventually destroys all who ally themselves with him, found another victim yesterday. The first swift turn this extraordinary case took was on the first day of the recent trial, when the arch-criminal dismissed his lawyers and "the prisoner at the bar" became counsel for the defense. Yesterday the tables were turned, and the senior counsel for the defense became a prisoner at the bar.

William A. Shoemaker, the young attorney, whose first association with the case is obscured in the mystery which envelops its every detail, passed through an ordeal as severe as any his client has been called to face, and the crisis came when he was held under $1,500 bail to answer a charge of subornation of perjury. This means that he manufactured evidence tending to prove that Benjamin F. Pietsel, for whose murder Holmes was convicted two weeks ago, committed suicide, and that he, Shoemaker, paid a woman $20 to sign and swear to this.

But the commonwealth had supplied the woman, although Shoemaker was ignorant of this, after he had produced this important "after-discovered evidence" and read it with great impression to the court, he asked that the argument on the motion for a new trial, which had been fixed for yesterday, be postponed to give him and his associate counsel, Samuel P. Rotan, time to run out this and other clues recently obtained. Then it was that District Attorney Graham arose and exposed the plot. His declaration came like a thunderbolt. The court stared in wide-eyed amazement and the spectators turned in their chairs and gasped; the accused lawyer sank back in his seat, livid and tremulous, while his innocent associate glared at him with unveiled horror, but the prisoner in the dock rested his cold blue eyes on the shrinking figure of his legal representative and snuled with scorn.

Briefly told, the details of the charge are these: The trial for the Pietsel murder was two days' old when Shoemaker approached a private detective named John Schwechler and asked him to procure a woman who lived around Twelfth or Thirteenth and Callowhill or Vine streets who would swear to certain facts in connection with the finding of Pietsel's body at 1316 Callowhill street. Schwechler assented, but instead of straightway getting the woman he told his story to Detective Geyer, who, for the commonwealth, brought to light the evidences of Holmes' murder of the children. Geyer submitted it to District Attorney Graham, and a most skillful trap was prepared, a trap which has brought about the ruin of the opposing attorney. Under instructions Geyer went to Mrs. Margaret Reah, matron in the Fourth district police station, and she, under the name of Blanche A. Hannigan, was taken to the home of John Schwechler. According to Schwechler, prepared an affidavit stating that the defendant had known Pietsel and that he had expressed his intention of committing suicide. Mrs. Hannigan readily signed and swore to this and Shoemaker gave her two $10 bills for so doing. On each bill she marked the initials "B. A. H." and yesterday she exhibited them in court.

Shoemaker walked into the trap blundered. When he read the affidavit to the court he declared that its contents had been dictated to him by the woman. A moment afterward irrefutable testimony was produced, showing that he had himself made up the affidavit and dictated it to a stenographer before he had even asked Schwechler to procure a woman to sign it, and that he had not so much as read or explained its purport to Mrs. Hannigan.

Judge Arnold, who was upon the bench during the trial, had called to Judges Thayer and Wilson to hear and decide with him on the merits of yesterday's arguments for a new trial. As the strange revelations came, the three judges did not hesitate, by their bringing or words, to manifest their sense of the gravity of the accused lawyer's situation. Judge Arnold afterward privately stated that disbarment proceedings would be considered after the disposition of the pending charge against Shoemaker.

Shoemaker had nothing to say. He was stunned and shocked beyond measure, but said this was not the time for him to talk. Rotan, his associate, expressed his confidence in his colleague's final exonerated, but he admitted that the evidence of his guilt was overwhelming. Rotan himself was unmurched. The witness, the district attorney and the court were careful to make that clear, and the young barrister, who has fought practically single-handed a battle against tremendous odds, with some skill and much fortitude, was visibly affected.

 the other with not having her hat on straight it could not have created greater consternation in the public mind.

It must be admitted that column after column of "reasons" for the late democratic slump make fully as interesting reading as the obituary of a man you never knew or heard of until after his decease. Is it not about time for the fellows who explain just how it all happened to come off?

Washington society, it is said, will greatly miss the Brices. Perhaps the Forakers will not neither will they care to fill the void where the Brices pull out, but over in the senate chamber there is not likely to be any rattling noise in the vicinity of the Brice seat when Joseph Benson gets there.

Hon. Frank Hurd may receive the democratic vote in the Ohio legislature for U. S. senator. Hurd seems too good a Democrat to have this empty honor thrust upon him when it is not likely he would have received more than one or two complimentary votes had the legislature been democratic.

When the nights get a little longer council may well take up the matter of street cleaning. We think the best that could be done under the circumstances was achieved this summer, but the system and provisions are incomplete with the added areas of paved streets. The streets must be swept and well swept. It is good policy to make the preparations complete this winter.

Republicans should not become irritable because democratic papers insist upon discussing the chances of the several candidates for the republican presidential nomination. It should be remembered that there are no democratic candidates to discuss, and the esteemed democratic press is to be credited with a desire to avoid that sarsaparilla feeling.

There are in the neighborhood of five hundred statutes by which the duties of county commissioners are defined.
 It does not appear that the able gentlemen who fill this office could go wrong, unless perhaps mistakes are made through confusion by so many laws. Mr. Morrai, Marion county's commissioner-elect, will have something to do in gaining a reasonable familiarity with statutes in such and such cases made and provided.

SURPRISE AT WALDO.

The Citizens Have a Big Time Celebrating a Birthday Wedding.

WALDO, Nov. 18.—A great deal of quiet bustling and mysterious whis-perings have been going on in this village for the past ten days, and they culminated Saturday night. Over 100 guests assembled at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Francis, each one laden with a huge package of good things to regale the inner man. They then sent out for Mr. and Mrs. John Cook, and when arrived, not knowing what was wanted, they were surprised, especially Mrs. Cook, in whose honor the gathering was had, it being the 26th anniversary of her birth. She, however, quickly recovered from her surprise and joined the rest in having a good time. The party did not break up until the small hours Sunday morning, and all join in saying they had a royal good time.

Such gatherings are a good thing for a community as they cement friendships closer every time. Our best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Cook.

 all teachers next week and arrange the work for the first month. The parents are earnestly requested to start every pupil Monday morning that expects to attend the winter term, that he may be properly classified.

Physicians Talk of Diphtheria.

The local physicians are of the opinion that the spread of diphtheria will become worse in this city. In speaking of the matter one of the physicians said that of late each case that came under his notice was a little bit worse than those that he had last year. He has been closely watching the disease since that time, and has given it a great deal of study. He says that it is growing worse, and that the cases are much worse than they have formerly been.
 The disease has not abated, and he has grave fears for the coming winter.

A Trace of Reason.

"Why didn't you call it a theater instead of an opera house?" asked the visiting gentleman.

"Well," said the eminent citizen of the little town as he gazed with pride at the local amusement hall, "opera house sounds bigger and doesn't sound so wicked."—Indianapolis Journal.

The Total Valuation of Realty and Per-

 Which Marion City and Township Pay One Third.

The abstract of the tax duplicate of Marion county for the year 1895 has been finished by Auditor Guthery and Deputy Auditor Hipsler, who did the clerical work on the duplicate which is one of the heaviest pieces of work in the auditor's office.

The duplicate shows that there are 252,599 acres of land in the county, the value of which is assessed at $6,322,330.
 The value of the real estate in cities and villages is fixed at $2,607,500 and the value of personal property is assessed at $5,158,358, making the total assessed value of realty and personal-ty in the county $14,288,248.

The total state tax for 1895 at the fund, $714.41 for Ohio State University fund, $20,003.54 for the general revenue fund and $14,288.25 for the state common school fund.

The total tax levy for county purposes excepting the per capita dog tax is $396,281.11, of which $39,292.68 is the county tax proper, $5,715.30 is the poor tax, $21,432.37 is the bridge tax, $2,143.24 is the building tax, $2,143.24 is the tax for the indigent soldiers' fund, $18,268.70 plied on all debts for which the county is responsible, $8,473.84 for township tax, and sub-district schools, school houses and taxes for school purposes, $73,091.25 for special taxes, $53,036.93 for city and village taxes and $4,286.45 for ditch and election taxes.

The total taxes levied in 1895 for all purposes excepting the per capita tax on dogs is $375,578.70.

The delinquent taxes amount to $7,- 802.50 on realty, showing an improvement over the preceding year, when the delinquent taxes were $8,564.05 of $571.16. The personal taxes amount to $5118.66, a showing to the bad of $267,- 44, but showing an improved condition on both realty and personalty to the amount of $308.72.

The total tax duplicate for all purposes, including delinquencies and foreclosure, excepting per capita tax on dogs, is $388,655.36 and the total tax on dogs amounts to $2,037, on 1891 male and 88 female dogs.

The report shows that of the total assessed value on realty and personal-ty of $14,288,248, the city of Marion is assessed to the amount of $4,286,020 and included in the township is realty and personalty to the amount of $1, 076,468 more, making a grand total in the township of $5,371,497 or more than one-third of the entire duplicate.

RAILROAD NOTES.

The Erie pay car will arrive Thursday.

Daniel Ryan, supervisor of the Erie was in the city today.

The new mail service will go into effect on the Erie Sunday.

The A. R. U. is still in existence in this city and has a thriving lodge of seventy-four members.

J. P. Sullivan, traveling auditor of the C. H. V. and T., was in the city today, checking up the local office.

It is now stated that the Brice syndicate lines will be consolidated Jan. 1, and will have a mileage of 1635 miles.

E. B. Thomas, president of the Erie Railway company, is quoted as saying that the reorganization placed the property well upon its feet, and hereafter it cannot be classed among the "cats and dogs" of railway properties.
 In the western railway circles, where George Cochran is well known his promotion to the vice presidency is regarded with hearty approval.

Galion Inquirer: A motion is on foot between the Erie and Big Four railways for the joint use of their tracks between this city and Marion.
 Under the arrangement the trains of both roads will use the Erie tracks for west bound and the Big Four tracks for east bound traffic. In this city the tracks will be joined together by cross over tracks just west of the target at the Boston street crossing and at Marion either near the Huber Machine works or at the junction. The traffic of both roads between this city and Marion has increased to such proportions that the arrangement is being considered with much favor. The Erie road alone handles on an average of 55 trains daily on this division. It is understood that Supt. Allen, of the Erie, and General Supt. Schaaf, of the Big Four, are in favor of the joint arrangement and it only remains for the higher officials to approve it.

 meeting of the Delaware district, which was to have been held at Prospect, Wednesday, Nov. 20, has been postponed

WAVES OF DARKNESS.

Curious Phenomenon Stops Business and Work in Pittsburgh.

A meteorological phenomenon of unusual character attracted wide attention in Pittsburgh and vicinity between 10 and 11 o'clock the other morning. Rain and wind were prevailing, the atmosphere was heavy, and the clouds hung low.

Suddenly a fall of darkness, growing in intensity, came up the Ohio valley from the northwest. It produced an effect like the shadow of an eclipse. It seemed to be produced by an area of low sweeping clouds, large enough to cover the heavens and dense enough to cut off all light from above. The darkness was remarkable and alarming.

Carpenters stopped their work on new buildings. People rushed to the doors and windows. Shoppers and even clerks poured out of the stores, and in a few minutes the streets were filled with throngs of people, all looking upward apprehensively.

Business indoors and out was suspended. In the outskirts of the city the air was filled with myriads of leaves.

Down the Ohio river a beautiful feature of the phenomenon was exhibited when the darkness was at its height by the sudden dawning of a spot of silver brightness low down on the horizon, in the center of the Ohio valley and over the waters of the Ohio. This was the rear guard of the darkness. Both it and the cloud traveled with about the velocity that a cloud shadow in mid-summer does when it sweeps over the meadows. The brightness following was like molten silver, and beneath it the river took on the same effect. The falls of the river at Davis island dam, which a moment before had been lost to sight in the darkness, now seemed like a line of quicksilver across the river, above and beyond which the city was lost to sight in inky darkness. This light revealed long cloud streamers traveling with surprising rapidity. Then in turn the light brightened up the city.

Three times came waves of darkness and light. The light waves were narrow and of startling intensity, while the dark wave covered the whole heavens.
 It took but a few moments for each manifestation to pass, but everybody says nothing like it was ever seen there before.—New York Sun.

QUAY AND THE PRESIDENCY.

The Pennsylvania Senator a Full Fledged Candidate.

"Matthew Stanley Quay is a full fledged candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency," said the Hon. James Kerr, clerk of the house of representatives, in Washington, the other day. "I want to tell you about it.
 Last week two gentlemen in the city received copies of a little pamphlet, cut and bound in imitation of a morocco covered memorandum book, entitled 'The Political History of Matthew Stanley Quay.' Now, Quay was never known to do such a thing as that before, and that of itself at this juncture is most significant, indicating the existence of a literary bureau."

But, in addition, while I was in Pennsylvania the other day I was told that Senator Quay had made up his mind to try for the nomination. His friends say he feels that the Republican victories of 1894 and his own triumph over the opposition in his own party in Pennsylvania last summer give assurance that with him at the head of the ticket success will be certain. The state will be worked between now and next spring to secure a Quay delegation to the national convention, and to this end Senator Cameron has been committed.
 The constraint in their personal relations, if any ever really existed, has disappeared, as their departure for a fishing trip in Florida demonstrates, and all the power of the old combination will be exerted in Quay's behalf."

To Promote Social Concord.

The latest addition to the philanthropic associations of the metropolis is the Society for Promoting Social Concord. The object is a very laudatory one, and I note that the promoters have obtained the benison of the bishop of Darham, Canon Scott-Holland and Dr.
 Clifford. It is proposed to establish either in Western Australia or New Zealand a pioneer settlement to be called the Model Co-operative community, which will consist of about 200 married couples, with or without children, 50 single male and 50 single female adults, to be selected according to their avocations so as to meet local requirements, and provide for each other's necessities in the matter of food, clothing and habitation. If this pioneer community should prove a success, others will be established from time to time in various parts of the globe as funds and circumstances will permit.—Galignani Messenger.

ALL TOO FAMILIAR

IS THE STORY TOLD BY SEIFFERLAN. A STRANGER.

He is Involved into an Out-of-the-way Place, Knocked Down and Robbed—He Thinks He Lost Not Less Than Sixty Dollars.

The police are on the lookout for two men that did a pretty clever job of holding up Monday night, although their victim was an easy mark.

On an evening train Monday Charles Seifferlan arrived here from Huntington, Ind. He was on his way to Shelby, his home being near that place. He is acquainted with Fred Cowi and inquired for his saloon. He stepped in at Cowi's and took a drink and then left, going north of the railroads.

He met two fellows and inquired of them if they could direct him to Cowi's, as he wanted to go back there and did not know the way. His companions were very willing to assist him in finding the place, and escorted him to a saloon where they had a drink. In the saloon Seifferlan flashed a roll of bills, and on leaving he was taken along the Erie railroad track, near State street, when one of them struck him over the head. The first blow did not take effect on him, and he was struck a second time and felled to the ground. Then both of the men jumped on him. He does not remember any more about it until some time afterwards when he regained consciousness.

A quartet of boys near by heard his groans and one of them ran to Captain Smith, of the police force and informed him. He went at once to the scene and found nothing there but a hat. Smith went back and officers were assigned to the case. Each took a lantern and searched the streets and alleys and out-of-way places for the man. It was feared that he had been killed and spirited away. The affair occurred between 8 and 9 o'clock and it must have been 2 o'clock when Seifferlan wandered up to the officers on Church street and said that he had been robbed. He was taken to the city prison and kept there until this morning.

When seen by the Star he stated that he could identify the fellows that held him up if he should see them. He also stated that he had been drinking, but was not greatly intoxicated. He had in the neighborhood of $63 when he was robbed. He had counted his money in a saloon just a few minutes prior to that time.

Seifferlan is a German, aged about 28 years, and is single. He had been working with a threshing machine and drew his money just a short time ago.

CHANGES OWNERSHIP.

Still Bros. Dispose of Their Grocery to Frank Berringer.

The firm of Still Bros., who conduct a general grocery business, has changed hands, the doors of the house will be closed Wednesday and an invoice of the stock made, after which it will be turned over to Frank Berringer, a boiler maker, who has been in the employ of the Marion Manufacturing works.

This sale was a surprise. The Still Brothers, W. E. and R. F., came here some years ago, and entered business and since that time have been closely identified with the business prosperity of Marion. They have made a success and their retirement will be a surprise to their friends. The Messrs. Still have not as yet decided just what they will do.

LOST HIS GRIP.

A Traveling Man Has a Dress Suit Stolen.

E. Gutmann, a Cincinnati traveling man, was robbed at the Erie depot Monday night of a suit of clothes. He was going to take the train for the East, and setting his satchel on his trunk stepped in to get a baggage check. He was only gone a few seconds and when he returned the satchel was gone.

It contained a dress suit that he carried with him on the road as he expected this trip to attend several social affairs. The suit was worth about fifty dollars.

AN AGED WOMAN

Receives a Hard Fall That Will Cause Her Much Pain.

Mrs. Kate Corkins, the aged mother of J. W. Corkins, fell down stairs at the home of her son, on Uhler avenue, Monday evening, severely bruising her about the shoulders.

Dr. J. O. Weeks was called and rendered medical aid. She is resting easily today, though she will be confined to her room for some time.

Successful Surgical Operation.

Dr. Crane performed a surgical operation on Mrs. William Hutchinson, of Owen street, that has greatly relieved her. Of late she has been a great sufferer and for years has been unable to breathe through her nose.

She came to the physician and he found that she was affected with a fibrous tumor in the upper part of her throat and it has spread until it closed her nostrils. It was successfully removed. It is a case that is very rare.

THE NEW TEA GOWNS

THEY ARE OF FINE QUALITY, BUT NOT ALTOGETHER LOVELY.

Descriptions of Some of the Most Striking Gowns—Gowns for Ordinary Occasions.
Handsome Reception Dresses—New Colored Flannel for Morning Wear.

The newest tea gowns are not altogether things of beauty, but as tea gowns they are tolerated. They are long, of course, and wide, as they must be, but have very little to recommend them except as to the quality of the goods of which they are composed. Silk of the most superb quality, velvet and plush are used for the body of the gown, and for the fashionable front the preference is for the best, thinnest and most delicate material, such as crepe lisse, silk and often handsome lace. When these fine stuffs are used, there must be a backing of finer goods of a color either matching or at least harmonizing with the balance of the gown.

There are two distinct styles of tea gowns. One is cut on princess shape, fitting closely in the back, with the front hanging loose over the full front of whatever it is. The other is as shape-less as it can be, the whole gown dependent from the yoke. This yoke is sometimes plain, but richly garnished with lace or periwinkle velvet on that, or it is made by shirtings. Velvet and plush shirtings are heavy, but very rich and sumptuous, as they show an entire disregard of expense. The shirtings are arranged so as to form a Mother Hubbard yoke. The gown falls thus from neck to foot in an unbroken line, the only attempt to fit being a slight slant over the hips. The collar depends upon the shape of the gown's neck. If it is pretty, the neck is V shaped and finished flat. If it could be improved upon, the collar is high and most generally is a stock, though some ladies affect the méchins form.

The waist may or may not be defined by a girdle or a bow of ribbon. It may hang from the neck to the feet also. A pretty fancy in one tea gown was to have the front laid in bias folds across the bust, in a diagonal line, to the waist. From there the skirt portion fell loosely over a lining of blue glace taffetas, a pretty bow making the line. The gown itself was of a metallic blue plush, while the front drape was white silk mull. The sleeves were immense, bishop shape, made of plush, with a deep ruffle of the mull falling over the hand and made on the double of the material. A rich velvet tea gown had a narrow band of ermine down each side of the front, and the front was filled in with a cascade of four inch flat val lace over pale blue taffetas. The sleeves were very large bishops with drooping cuffs bordered with ermine and edged with lace. Fur and lace do not quarrel in such close proximity, though one might suppose they would. The rich ermine brocade is seen occasionally in these elegant gowns, and often one might suppose them to have been made out of old India shawls, so closely does the fabric imitate those expensive things. There is also a new cashmere printed in these same dear old "palm leaf" designs, and this makes less expensive, but very handsome tea gowns. This does not bear lace so well as a velvet or plush gown does, so a front of soft china or Japanese crepe is used instead. Sometimes this is plain, and often it is richly embroidered along the bottom with silks and tinsel in choice colorings.

For ordinary tea gowns, not to be worn on state occasions, there are plain cashmeres in all the pretty colors of the season: warm and rich they are too.
These are trimmed with braiding, sometimes with very narrow and again quite heavy set fabric, put on in a pattern or less elaborate. These often have a handsome, heavy cord and tassel around the waist. All have large bishop sleeves, with a narrow or deep cuff. Shirring on the shoulders of these sleeves and at the wrists makes a pleasing finish.

For handsome reception dresses for almost any lady there are a few designs in silks. One very novel piece of silk was in a deep dove color, barred with stripes of irregular width in the same color, only three shades lighter. Inside the plaits thus made were large dots of the pale shade, and small dots of black. The stripes and dots were satin over the taffetas.
It was deliciously quaint. Made up it was unusually striking. The skirt was very full, but without ornament.
The back of the waist was of the silk.
The front was a blouse of maize dotted tulle, with a cover of plain black Russian net. There was a narrow belt of apple green satin ribbon with many loops. The collar was a choker of green velvet. The sleeves were elbow puffs, extra wide.

The new outing flannels, made of cotton, deserve a passing mention. They are really very pretty in design, the colors well chosen and fast, and the stuff itself is thick and very soft to the touch.
It makes admirable lounging and early morning wrappers, and is especially valuable for children's everyday frocks.
It can be had in such dark and neat mixtures that it can be worn a long time without laundering, and when washed it is still pretty. Blue and red stripes, pink and gray checks, and all kinds and colors of broken plaids and tufted effects, are brought out in this useful stuff.
The price is but 10 cents a yard, and it is a yard wide.

Long, loose and ample cloaks are gaining in favor for carriage and visiting. They are made differently of plain cloth, cheviot or marmalade wool, or plush velvet and gross grain in silks.
For is the preferred lining, though plain silk with a canton flannel interlining is often used. HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

WOMAN'S WORLD IN PARAGRAPHS.

College Women Before the Days of Vassar and Wellesley.

There seems to be a tendency on the part of graduates of some of the so-called colleges for women to glorify themselves unduly. This leads them into occasional making both serious and ridiculous breaks. Miss Frances M. Abbott makes a mistake that partakes of both natures when she opens a paper in The Forum with the astonishing statement that the 30 years of Vassar's existence practically cover the whole period of advanced education for women. I should be sorry indeed to take away any of the credit that belongs to Vassar and her daughters, but the fact remains that before Vassar was thought of there were colleges in existence where women received a more severe and extensive training than Vassar affords even to this day.
I once compared very carefully, year by year, the course of instruction at Vassar with that of one of the colleges above mentioned. I found to my regret that the Vassar course only took girls as far as the freshman and sophomore years in these older colleges, in which many women had already graduated. I remember regretting that this was the case because it seemed to me Vassar wasn't going to be a real college, after all, only a sort of excellent high school or academy.
The course may have been—probably has been—extended since then, as that was several years ago. I hope so; otherwise Vassar is still just what I thought it, not much of a college, after all. Miss Abbott says that Michigan university "dates from the neighborhood of 1870." It is to be hoped Vassar teaches her daughters generally to be more accurate in their statements. Michigan university began its glorious career before the year 1870, and admitted women very shortly after its opening. Has Miss Abbott never heard of Oberlin college, where splendid Lucy Stone graduated more than 50 years ago, and not only Lucy Stone, but others, among the bravest and brainiest of the women antislavery workers? Does she know nothing of Antioch college in Ohio, founded by Erace Mann for the express purpose of affording equal opportunities to both sexes for a thorough training? In the early years of its existence the course at Antioch compared almost study for study with that at Harvard, on which it was founded. Antioch had a little more mathematics, Harvard had rather more Latin and Greek. If the girls at Vassar and Smith and Wellesley get anything like the intellectual discipline the girls at Oberlin and Antioch did in those early days they may congratulate themselves.

South Carolina gentlemen have put their wives, daughters and sisters in a class along with negroes. Neither can vote.

One of the most artistic pieces of work yet accomplished by that admirable institution, the New York School of Applied Design for Women, is the Revolutionary calendar prepared for the societies of the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution. It is published under the auspices of the New York chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The original 12 cents which Great Britain gave to the colonies are ingeniously represented on the cover of this beautiful calendar. Jeanette Van Salisbury, who was a prize winner at the World's fair, made the designs.

One of Ohio's ablest lay delegates to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church will be Mrs. Jane Bashford, wife of the president of the Ohio Wesleyan university. The women are going to get in this time if the Ohio conference can secure their admission.

In the Mahoning valley, near Shamo-sisters, and their family name is Mays.

The eldest is the foreman of the mine.
Another sister runs the steam engine that furnishes power for the pumping and breaking machinery. The girls are said to be large, hard-ome and healthy.

A FILTER INSIDE YOU

HOW YOUR BLOOD IS KEPT PURE.

Health Comes From Pure Blood.
Pure Blood Depends on the Filter Inside You.

Your Kidneys Keep Your Blood Pure If They Are Well—A Few Facts About Them, and How to Make Them Well When They Are Sick.

Your blood is what nourishes your body. New blood is made every minute. It goes to the lungs, gets fresh air, and then passes through the body. In passing, it deposits new flesh, fat, bones, etc., and takes up worn out matter.
This worn out matter goes to the kidneys. The kidneys filter it out of the blood and throw it out of the body.
That is, when you are well, they do.
When your kidneys are well they act as perfect filters, to keep your blood pure. When they are sick, they act imperfectly. They leave the bad matter in. Sometimes they take out the good.

There is nothing more poisonous than bad blood.
A proof of this is rheumatism. It is simply a blood-poisoning caused by the bad matter left in the blood by sick kidneys.

Bright's disease is the kidneys working the other way—taking the good food out of the blood.

Both kinds of kidney sickness are dangerous.

Both can be cured by Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills.

One of the most wonderful facts of your body is this natural filter inside us.
Our kidneys are very important organs.
We don't take enough care of them.
We are sick often than there is any need for. It is simply because we take no heed to our kidneys.

Sick kidneys show their effects in many different diseases.

Rheumatism and Bright's disease are very common. Anemia, neuralgia, pain in the back, dizziness, bladder troubles, gravel, diabetes, sleeplessness, nervousness.

These are only a few symptoms, or so-called "diseases." Back of them all are the sick kidneys.

Once the filters can be made to work, all these symptoms will disappear.

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills are made principally from the roots of the sparagus plant, which has a special curative action on the kidneys. It gives them new life and strength. It helps them to do their work as it ought to be done. It cures their sickness. It cleans and renews the filter.

When the kidneys are well you will feel a great difference at once. Your complexion will clear, and your whole body will get renewed life and freshness.

This is the effect of Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills on the sick kidneys, of the re-vitalized kidneys on the impure blood.

With a course of Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills you will get new life. They will cure you when other medicines, which do not reach the real seat of disease, cannot help you.

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills are
for sale by all druggists, price 50c per box, or will be sent prepaid to any address on receipt of price.

An interesting booklet, explaining about the kidneys and their power for good and evil, sent free on request.
Address Hobb's Medicine Co., Chicago or San Francisco.

Then Kinder Got Married.

The constant repetition of some particular word or phrase is a characteristic of the speech of many a person who is quite unconscious of his peculiarity and of the amusing effect it sometimes produces.

"And so you've married after all," said a summer resident of Runkler to Mr. John Larkin, one of the oldest citizens of that flourishing town. "I thought you were a confirmed bachelor."

"Well, I kinder thought I was, too," said Mr. Larkin, with a grim smile, "but I kinder made a mistake, ye see.
Come sudden on me, too, matrimony did—that is, kinder sudden."

"How did it happen?" inquired the summer resident, with gratifying interest.

"Well, it was kinder curious, as yet kinder natural, too," said Mr. Larkin.
"Ye see, I'd known Mirandy Opatow-ski all my days—that is to say, kinder known her, livin in the same township.
But last winter I kinder run across her at her cousin's, James Holley's, one evening. His wife was kinder sickly, an Mir-andy'd brought her some jelly to kinder tempt her appetite."

"Well, when I got through my business with James, I kinder looked round, an she was settin on her haunch an shawl."

"An I kinder waited round a minute, an then we kinder went out onto the entry together, an kinder kep on out of the house an along the road. I hadn't ever had any notion of courtin," said Mr. Larkin with scornful emphasis.

"But we just kinder kep company for a couple o' months, an then we kinder got married—that's all there was to it."

"You look as if matrimony agreed with you," said the summer resident, when some face belied his internal cautions.

"Oh, ye, I'm kinder glad we settled it up as we did," said Mr. Larkin as he prepared to start for home by loosening his hold on the rail fence over which the colloquy had been carried on. "I'm kinder gittin on in years, an Mirandy's fact is on her kinder brushed off, as ye might say—but, on the whole, I'm kinder glad!"—Yonah's Companion.

Of Course.
Little Brother—But why ain't it proper to get a feller's pie with his knife?

Little Sister—Because that is the easiest way to get it, of course.—Ladysap-er's Journal.

THE CURIOSITY SHOP.

Some of the Pet Offens that a Great Many Persons Cherish.

Every human being has his pet superstition. It came to him almost in the cradle and has remained with him, by a strange pertinacity, all his life. A pet superstition will lose not a jot of its influence should it fail every time in a hundred, provided it proves true in one instance only. This fact shows how men are joined to their superstitions idols.

"Sing before breakfast, cry before night," is the most ridiculous of all old hogies and the most destructive of mirth, laughter and happiness.

There is an old superstition that the left limb should always be dressed first, but not completely at one time. Where is the man or boy, saving only a spirit of bravado, who knowingly walks under a ladder? Even if done in a spirit of defiance of the old bogey how expectantly and sometimes tremblingly he awaits the coming of the penalty!

Even death may result if a human being should raise an open umbrella over his head within doors, it is said. Umbrella makers have been known to observe this religiously. People who live in the country must be careful not to have around their homes a white used cow, for, should the window be open and this cow with the white proboscis reach it over the window sill in search of something dairy, there will be a death in the family before long. So says the old saw.

Why must we give a penny for any sharp instrument presented by a friend?
Why do we seek a four leaved clover, and why must we pick up a dirty horseshoe from the street whenever we see it there? Why do men pull the horseshoe over their doors, and ends down, too, invariably, when the original superstition, of which they seem to be in ignorance, asserts that it should be nailed up the other way, so as to catch within its embrace the luck which descends? asks a writer in the New York Times, who names the foregoing among many other popular superstitions. He says: "If every man will watch himself attentively, he will find that more than a single superstition will, to his utter astonishment, perhaps, crop out now and again.
It is worth trying, just for the fun of the thing, and to satisfy a commendable curiosity."

A Great Black Diamond.

The Engineering and Mining Journal illustrates a remarkably large black diamond. The engraving from a photograph, is much reduced in size. The diamond weighs 3,100 carats and is therefore, The Jewellers' Circular says, by far the largest ever known.

The stone was found in the carbon district, the old diamond fields of Brazil.
It is of the class known as "black diamonds," or, commercially, as carbon, which are used in diamond drills and for similar purposes, their color not adapting them to ornament.

At the present time the stone is in Paris, and the Brazilian government is negotiating for its purchase for the national museum. It is difficult to say how such an exceptionally large stone will turn out when cut into commercial sizes. The value is placed by experts at between $30,000 and $40,000.

The Strongest Arm.

In the last report of the Anthropometric laboratory of London the relative strength and length of limb in men and women are given. In man 50.9 cases out of 100 the right arm is longer than the left. In 16.4 cases the two arms are of equal strength. In 32.7 cases out of 100 the left arm is the stronger. Thus —and here is a fact that appears to be but little known—out of every ten men there are more than three whose right arm is not as strong as the left. The proportion is better distributed in women. Out of 100 only 44.9 possess more strength in the right arm, and 24.5 (say, nearly one-fourth) have more strength in the left. Dynamometric experiments have likewise proved that in women the upper limbs possess the same strength much oftener than in men.

The Life of the Honeybee.

It does not seem to be known generally that the life of a bee is extremely short. Every bee that leaves the hive in the spring is dead before fall, and those which live over the fall die very soon after the spring opens. The death of a bee is usually very sudden—they have been known to fall even in their flight, and to be dead in a few seconds after reaching the ground. This fact about the life of the bee is supposed to be generally known, says Mechan's Monthly, but, in fact, the knowledge is not as widely spread as it deserves to be.

Weather Signs.

Hear frost is a sign of rain.
If rats and mice be restless, rain.
After a warm autumn a long winter.
The more snow the healthier the season.

Beard of frost is a forerunner of snow.
A clear autumn brings a windy winter.

If it rains before 7, it will cease before 11.
Expect fair weather from one night's fog.

A green Christmas make a white Easter.

"On or off the line,

we're with the majority—stuck on Pearlina!" And they're right—you will observe that their heads are level. Millions of women sing the same song as the clothes-pins. They may express it differently, but they mean the same thing. They mean that their work is easy and sooner done—and better done. No clothes worn out with the endless rub, rub, rub on the washboard. No backs tired out with it, either.

These millions of women mean that they're using Pearlina, saving labor, time, and money with it, and have proved it to be perfectly harmless. Now, what do you mean? Surely you don't mean to try to do without it?

Beware of cheap imitations. Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you,
"this is as good as" or "the same as Pearlina." IT'S FALSE—Pearlina is never peddled, if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back. JAMES PYLE, New York.

HOW'S THIS, DOCTOR?

SYLVESTER EGGLESTON SAYS YOU ARE A GOOD COLLECTOR

And Collected a Bill from the Infirmary Directors, Having Already Been Paid by Him--Said Against R. C. Bowditch Before Justice McKinley.

A suit was commenced in the justice court of 'Squire McKinley this morning that, if proven, will put one of our professional men in a very bad light.

In the winter of 1894 Mrs. Mary C. Eggleston, wife of Sylvester Eggleston, was sick and Dr. R. C. Bowditch waited upon her and, as Eggleston alleges, the doctor entered into an agreement with him by which he was to pay the doctor bill in painting, he, Eggleston, being a painter by trade.

Mrs. Eggleston was sick some two or three weeks and the doctor kept saying to Eggleston that he would soon have a job of painting ready for him and finally he told Eggleston to come ahead and do the work.

Eggleston and another man working for him went to work and painted Bowditch's house and when the job was completed the doctor said to Eggleston that he was well pleased with the work that he, Eggleston, had done a good job and then he went on to say that as Eggleston had been unfortunate and had much sickness and as the bill was a heavy one that he would call it square if Eggleston would go ahead and paint the barn.

Eggleston painted the barn and the doctor was satisfied, so Eggleston believed, but meanwhile the doctor had reported the case to the infirmary directors and received payment of his bill in full, receiving $19.87 March 8, 1895, and $4.00 in September, it is known.

In other words the doctor had received payment of his bill in full according to contract and expressed his satisfaction in the presence of witnesses, yet presented his bill and received payment a second time.

This finally came to the ears of Eggleston and he was somewhat warm when he learned that his wife had been reported as a pauper patient, and according to his story went to the doctor with the matter and the doctor told him that the infirmary directors came to him and stated that they wanted to contribute.

Eggleston now sues to recover for the painting done and has subpoenaed many witnesses to prove his case. Johnston & Young represent the plaintiff in the case.

OVER A MILLION.

The Amount of the Fortune That's Coming To the Waylands.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wayland has just received a letter to the effect that she and her children are to come into possession of a large fortune. The letter was a surprise to her and her children. The estate will amount to about thirteen hundred thousand dollars.

William Wayland, now deceased, had an uncle residing in Baltimore by the name of Henry Nash. He was a colonel in the war of 1812 and afterwards amassed a large fortune. Of late years old age came and he has not been able to take an active part in business, and his death, which came some time ago, left an estate of many hundred thousand dollars to which the family of the late William Wayland are direct heirs. The letter has been placed in the hands of a Marion attorney for investigation.

THEY FIGHT IT OUT

And Miss Upper Sandusky Gets the Worst Of It.

Two women, one from Upper Sandusky and another residing here, became involved in a quarrel on the square, Monday evening, and the one dared the other to fight. It was finally agreed that they should go to a point near the Linsley & Lawrence lumber yards and fight it out. They did so and the party followed.

On arriving at the scene of the fight the crowd formed a ring and the women went at it. They tore each other's hair, called one another names, and fought in regular "grab-as-grab-can" feminine style of personal warfare for a few minutes. The Marion woman got the best of the fight by big odds.

Moved To Verbo.

[Kingwood, W. Va., Herald.]

On Wednesday of last week Mrs. Godwin and her two sisters, Mrs. Julia and Belle Hudson, of Marion, Ohio, visited the C. V. Stone homestead four miles south of Kingwood, after an absence of twenty-eight years, and spent a very pleasant day with Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, who now reside upon the old farm. A part of the old orchard remains to which Mrs. Julia Hudson dedicates the following lines:

Old orchard, where our footsteps strayed, How changed you are today With grasses dead and rotting trunks, Where we and merry boys Old orchard, that was once the scene of childish strolls and romps, Why could not you, if we be gray, be spared your youthful pomp
For looking on you desolate, the thought in me prevails Which must have saddened Adam, when he last saw Eden's vale.
